I thought I had replied with what I thought was the appropriate components.
Here is a picture of the box we will use to conduct the test.
Please can you send a quote.

Hi John,

I'm just following up on your enquiry regarding a MaxO2+AE with clamp from last week, did you manage to get a picture of the rail that you want to attach this analyser to?

We don't have a rail clamp for vertical medirail, but perhaps a vertical pole mount will suffice? A picture of the rail may help to determine how we can mount this.

Best regards,
