

Hi Alan,

I hope you are well. I'm contacting you with an update regarding the oxygen sensors that we supply to yourselves, for which we created you a custom V-tech label with your own address details on as per the image below:

We first started doing this in 2011, but as the ISO standards and audits get more stringent, it has been highlighted to us that even though it's not quite what we considered 'own brand labelling', it's too close for us to do this without going down the OBL route. As such, we feel we have to discontinue this labelling service.

It's no major change to how we do things, the box will simply now have the standard automotive sensor label with white-space where you can apply your own self-adhesive labels if required.

We previously charged an additional 50p for the custom label, so the sensor cost will reduce accordingly. The current distributor pricing is as follows:

<25-off: £26.90+VAT

25+: £24.20+VAT

If you have any queries, please let me know.

Best regards,

Steve Hardaker
