Good morning,

I am sorry to have to let you know that part number 0110466 R100P51-002 Maxtec Oxygen Sensor MAX-25 was recently discontinued.

I am sorry that I have only just been given this information.

I will need to remove it from your order. Would you like to proceed with the rest of the order? I could add a credit to your account for 105.50 euros if that is acceptable to you?

I am sorry for any inconvenience this may cause and await your reply.

Many thanks.

Subject: Re: KE-25 oxygen sensor supply

Dear Ata Ozcan

Thank you very much for your email and message. I remember meeting you a number of years ago at Medica, you mentioned that you were using the KE-25 in your O2 Generators and that you were purchasing from our partner at the time, Bora.

We would be happy to supply you directly if this works for you? However, the KE-25 is no longer available, the manufacturer has replaced it with a new lead free version.

The new version of the KE-25 is as follows:

0110547 Oxygen sensor KE-25F3LFM (threaded input) Lead-free, unterminated. 0-100% range. The approximate price is = EUR €88.20 each EXW (I will need to clarify if this is correct, as we have not purchased any recently)

The issue that you will face with this sensor is that the output is lower than the standard KE-25, so you may need to make some adjustments to your equipment.

Output: 5.0 to 8.0mV

Range: 0 - 100% oxygen

Response time: approx. 15s

Sensor life: approx. 6 years at 20 degrees C in air (1013mb)

Input connection: Threaded

Maxtec offer an alternative to the original KE-25, the MAX-25:

0110466 Oxygen sensor MAX-25

The pricing for these in 2024 were €105.50, I would need to check this if it is of interest, as Maxtec are currently making some price changes.

Please let me know your thoughts and please never hesitate to contact me if you have any questions.

Kind regards

Ryan

Dear Sir Madam

For many years we supplied KE 25 Oxygen sensors from Mr. Bora in Turkey.

Today I called him for our new order and found out that he closed his company.

How can you help us to order 50 units of KE-25 oxygen sensor?
