Hi Kate

Give me a quote for the two pairs of cells you have and send me a pro forma. I'll talk to the client about whether they'll accept the purchase of just two, and I'll confirm the date you'll have the remaining three.

Best regard

Hi again Alan,

Our commercial director has informed me that the lead time I gave you was incorrect. He is expecting a better lead time, I will email again when he has a better lead time.

Sorry for any inconvenience.

Kind regards

Kate Griffiths

Hi Alan,

We do not have five pairs in stock. The lead time would be mid December. Yes, the price is $87.50 per pack of 2. We have one or two pairs in stock, I cannot say if these would have been sold by the next time I speak to you.

The equivalent, R-43V, part number 0110449 is a non stock item. Another equivalent - OOM102, part number 0110578 is also a non stock item.

Kind regards

Hi Kate

I need 5 packs, that is, 10 oxygen sensors for a GE Giraffe anesthesia machine. How many units of R-43V do you have? If you don't have all of them, how many do you have to send and when will they arrive? What alternative do you have for this anesthesia machine?

The price of R-43V is 87.50 for the 2-unit pack.

Good morning Alan,

Thank you for your reply.

Part number 0110043 - R-43V pack of 2 oxygen sensors (suitable for Giraffe devices) costs $87.50 each EXW. Stock is very low for this item. I have attached a specification sheet.

The equivalent, R-43V, part number 0110449 is a non stock item. Another equivalent - OOM102, part number 0110578 is also a non stock item.

Kind regards

Dear Kate

We already purchased the environmental oximeter, thank you.

I'd like to ask you about oxygen cells for a General Electric incubator, model Giraffe, Carestation CS1 (Reference Max-43 GE). They come in pairs. I'm using the R43V cell as a reference, which says it works for the incubator, but I also believe the EnviteC OOM112 or Maxtec MAX-43 cells would work. I'm attaching photos of the original GE cell, which is expired.

Do you have the R43V in stock?
