Hi Philip

Further to our discussion, does the following help with the visualisation of the MaxO2 ME spare parts?

The RHS port provides connection to the external power supply

External Power Supply Operation

To extend the life of the batteries a Maxtec approved external power supply can be purchased. Once connected to the unit, total power is supplied by the external power supply. The batteries are still required to be in the unit and will provide emergency power in the event main AC power is lost.

Steve
