Good afternoon Theodore,

Thank you for your email.

Unfortunately we have none in stock at the moment (part number 0110565 - OOM109).

Please could I ask what date you require me to use for your new order - PO26002397? It is currently on hold.

Many thanks.

Kind regards

Hi Theodore

Historically we have stated 24 months for the R-47, the warranty is 15 months from shipment date. However, it is always better to put into service earlier.

For the OOM109 the generally stated shelf life is 6 months, the warranty is 9 months from shipment date.

There is a lot of confusion in the market place regarding shelf life. I can only assume that some manufacturers have issues with storage or are being very conservative. Some companies incorrectly use the 'egg timer' icon to try and indicate a 'put into use' by date. Strictly speaking this symbol is for expiry date.

In practice there may be a slight reduction in operational life if stored for say more than one year. As a general rule of thumb, most sensors revert to operational conditions when they are allowed to stabilize after being removed from their packaging...

Regards

Steve
