Hi Sue

Yes, it is definitely the R-33DE you require, is it just one you need?

Best regards

Ryan

Dear Sue

Thank you for your email.

I am happy to confirm that we do supply the sensors for the O2EII.

I would like to confirm which sensor you require, as there are two versions of the Analox O2EII analyser.

Most of the O2EII require the R-33DE, only a small number of the original O2EII uses the R-22DEM (more than 12 years old). The R-22DEM has two wires with a 2 pole connector, whereas the R-33DE has no wires; it has a small connector attached directly to the top of the PCB. I have attached a leaflet with pictures of both sensor types, please can you confirm which you require?

Both sensors have a trade price of £35 each EXW, I have attached our trade price list.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards

Ryan

Hi

I have a client that needs a new sensor in an Analox 02 E11 .

Is this something you do, and could I order one please for Berkshire Dive Centre. I believe we have an account with you.

Kind regards,

Sue Coffey
