Dear John,

re MICROSTIM

Enclosed are photograph copies of the letters and papers that I have received from the Agents in London which are self-explanatory and perhaps you would be kind enough to have a word with me when you have had an opportunity of reading through them.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Mr. Moody,

Searches Re: Proposed Mark MICROSTIM

This will confirm our telephone discussion when I reported upon the results of our searches into the availability of the above mark to identify your client's 'Supramaximal Stimulation Apparatus'.

As I explained, holidays and other absence from the office has caused delay in the despatch of this report and I trust that this has not caused undue inconvenience.

Our usual search report is attached to give you details of the registration and pending application to which I referred at the time of our discussion. Also attached is our printed list to provide guidance as to the respective goods included in Classes 9 and 10.

It would be my expectation that the particular equipment that your clients supply would fall within the latter class as 'surgical & medical instruments and apparatus' but of course to be certain of this we would need to have further particulars, such as a descriptive leaflet which might also illustrate the apparatus in question.

The registration for the mark MICROSTIX is perhaps the most relevant of the two marks that we have noted on the official record and especially as the goods to which that mark relates are for use in a rather similar environment i.e. for laboratory use. Nevertheless, it seems to me that there is a sufficient distinction between apparatus for laboratory use as against other apparatus for use in a surgical theatre to preclude any real likelihood of confusion between the respective products even though it must be admitted that the two marks MICROSTIM and MICROSTIX are very similar.

I suggest that your client may perhaps make enquiry as to the particular nature of the apparatus identified under the MICROSTIX mark by Miles Laboratories Inc. so as to assure themselves that confusion in the use of the two marks would be unlikely to arise.

As a further enclosure you will find attached our standard letter which gives brief information as to the procedure and the basic costs involved in the filing of a Trade Mark application. In the event that your client will wish to seek registration for the mark MICROSTIM please let us have their full name and business address and at the same time send us a cheque for the amount of £54.00. in payment of the disbursements for official fees and which should be made out to the Comptroller General, Patent Office.

As stated above, we should of course also have a full description of the apparatus to be identified by the mark.

I await to hear whether we may assist further and in the meantime attach our account.

31st July, 1985

Dear Sirs,

Re: Trade Mark Enquiry

We refer to your enquiry of 25th June 1985 with regard to the procedures relating to Trade Mark protection.

As a preliminary to seeking registration of a Trade Mark in the UK it is desirable to search into Marks already on record so as to ensure there is no existing claim to the same Mark or to a Mark closely similar thereto.

For the purpose, we need to know the Trade Mark and precise details of the goods to be identified by the Mark. In the case of a Device Mark (i.e. a pictorial representation) we need to have two prints of the same. We should also be informed whether the Mark in question has yet been used and if so the approximate first date of such use.

Costs for a search are usually in the range of £30 - £45.00 depending upon the complexity of the particular search.

If we find no conflicting Mark already on record, and if we are able to advise in addition that the Mark is a registrable one, an application for registered protection may be proceeded with. The costs for an application to cover goods in a single class amount to £128.75
(£54.00 official fees, £65.00 our service charge plus £9.75. V.A.T.)

In some cases objections to registration may be raised by the Registrar and additional costs would arise in dealing with these, the amount depending upon the work involved. If they arise, prosecution costs can range between £50.00. - £70.00, and sometimes more if there is major difficulty.

Upon final acceptance of an application registration fees are payable and these amount to £149.75 (£75 official fees, £65.00 our service charge plus £9.75. V.A.T.).

We look forward to hearing whether we may assist further in this respect.

Yours faithfully,
JORDAN & SONS LIMITED
