Hi Steve

I am really pleased to inform you that WITT have come back with the test results of the VST sensors and it has outperformed both the R-22VAN and the City sensor that they are currently using.

There are a few more tests to do before they accept it, but we are over the first hurdle.

There is no urgency, but I could do with having a chat with you about pricing, as I expect this is going to cost more than the R-22VAN which I have previously quoted for.

Regards

Ryan
