Oxygen Monitoring Range...

The range also includes other oxygen analysers and monitors to measure oxygen levels in a number of different situations and applications, for example in ventilator circuits, oxygen hoods/tents, incubators, anaesthesia machines and CPAP circuits. These products can also be used to test medical equipment and gas supply systems to verify that the correct level of oxygen is being supplied.

Including the MySign O Oxygen Monitor which is a highly precise hand-held monitor for clinical, emergency and home ventilation environments. It has a sturdy design which is suitable for paramedics and pre-hospital applications providing immediate access to patients' oxygen concentration parameters, therefore offering safety, even in critical situations.
